FRIDAY, AUGUST 25, 1911

It's nearly up to the boiling point, both the election and the weather. If these problems are repeated for all that hot weather we wish they would get together with the spit on Respectful for a must be making the atmosphere so hot that it is burning the red away.

Last summer when the strawberries were ripe the Canadians were getting for the strawberries $5.50 while at Seneca strawberries were selling at $1.75 on the same date. Which price will respectfully go to the Canadian farmer? These prices were prevalent this summer on the same date near the end of the season—near at Mission City and the other at Seneca. Will Mr. Oliver tell us all about it? It is important because we advertise the Fraser Valley as a fruit district. Is it not a fact that order respectfully the Americans will have the advantage both for labor and for the price of fruit here.

Abbotsford is growing in importance these days and it is a fact that the town had a post office building owned by the government so the postmaster would not have to pay rent. There would add to the appearance of the town. It is a long time since the Liberal government have done much for Abbotsford and we really believe that it might be possible for some people to like Hon. John and Laurier if a site for a new building were erected. Sites are just as cheap now as they will ever be in the future.

Use the popular method of advertising the town—the envelope with Abbotsford on the map.

PIONEER JOURNALISM

The early days of a newspaper magazine are not one that a man might. The newspaper and magazines are born into the world so frequently that the news of the brain and marrow of the brain are projected into its publication and it becomes more of a child to the originator than the natural offspring. This newspaper or magazine magazine only when money is no longer to be procured by all the artifices known in the strategy of business or when planted in an overcast sea feel deep by three waves awaking the bread who will produce a new edition and a clean sheet. The demand of Charles Lewis Shaw recently and his early associations in Edmonton, now the capital city of Alberta, brought to mind the story of how Hon. Frank Oliver happened to bring into ex-

Abbotsford, B. C.

When the Edmonton Bulletin, the first newspaper published in Alberta.

Alfred Taylor the dean of western telegraphers was associated with it. O. C. was in the very first, and is responsible for the information.

Mr. Taylor was looking down the Edmonton and of a wire which telegraphers was associated with it. O. C. was in the very first, and is responsible for the information.

Every day Mr. Taylor took over the wire from Winnipeg from 1880 to 1882 word of general news was passed a copy on the door of the old first for the benefit of the law.

From, after they kept a store in the first settlement, and he was his partner in his sister's day. Taylor suggested to the owner that he get some type set in his own name and start a newspaper. Mr. Oliver agreed, and when, the following summer he was his partner in his sister's day. Taylor suggested to the owner that he get some type set in his own name and start a newspaper.

The paper was supported day after day. It was made special by the fact that it was now grown and a sudden glow with morning and evening editions—Gus Power Age.

The envelope should be all right for advertising purposes when examined by the Board of Trade.

WHAT BRITAIN'S CENSUS SHOWS

The population of Great Britain at the first time since the census of the Anglon was taken, and according to the report of the registrar-general, maintained its rate of increase. During the decade the United Kingdom was 11 per cent, during the previous decade it was 13.1 per cent.

Especially striking does the last growth appear when contrasted with that of Germany, for while Great Britain actually increased its population only about 11.1 per cent in ten years its greatest commercial competitor in commerce is increasing at the rate of nearly 14 per cent.

The two main apparent causes for the future to maintain the actual rate of increase of population are the great fall in birth rate and the great increase in immigration. The bulk of the immigration has been directed to other parts of the British dominion, so that it cannot be regarded as lost to the empire.

The fact that the lowest rate of increase has been purely in agriculture, and that the rate of increase in the falling birth rate and the increasing rate of immigration, says an exchange. As everyone knows who has studied the figures, the British rural population does not increase as it should for two years.

remains the increase of wages and the necessity of housing so considerable. The former is undoubtedly due to war an inflated fiscal system which admits foreign products from low lands heavily the British cause of production.

The latter is due to the fact that the capital required for housing is so high that it provides a much smaller return than when employed in other methods. The average rate of interest on agricultural land, including farm buildings, cottages, etc., is only some two per cent, and now that rates must fall, it is not constantly rising, while rent does not increase proportionately, and owners are becoming more and more willing to use their capital on such unproductive terms, especially when the security is a comparatively falling one.

British great landlords have been willing to accept a nominal return on the capital expended on their estates, and they are of the opinion that the present position of the land is not a profitable one.

Under these circumstances the young couples find it an ever increasing difficulty to marry and settle down in the country. One consequence is that young men go to towns to increase their income in the labor market, and another is that both men and women migrate to the United States or the English dominions, and so the country languishes for lack of the able population and suffers from the depression of the number of the family, and various and degenerate folk left on our shores.

A favorable feature of the return is the marked increase in the growth of our exports, a fact which tends to show that our international trade is progressing, the price is that so much of the goods thus transported are not sold and not turned out in our own factories by our own people.

It would figure the present population of the United Kingdom is thirty-five and a quarter millions, being an increase of some 1.5 million upon the total of ten years ago, which was numbered thirty-one and a half millions.

The population of France at the last census of 1906 was only thirty-one and a quarter millions, but she has outstripped that country in the race of population, by no means approached Germany's twenty-eight millions which was more than sixty and a half million in the last quinquennial census. This unique and vigorous effort of the Anglo-Saxon race, the United States of America, has of course surpassed the three European countries referred to, and in the last decade numbered over 70,000,000—English Exchange.

The envelope with Abbotsford on the map is no dearer than the value printed envelopes that you use. See number.

For you must know the Gaelic tongue
 Was it such a
 And then, weighty Holist song
 The time the sheep was fed?
 And then Adam's name was Great.
 Was it such a
 She was a poetess and wrote
 'The Bells of Aberlady'

Moreover, too, the Gaelic
 name was Douglas
 And then, weighty Holist song
 The time the sheep was fed?
 And then Adam's name was Great.
 Was it such a
 She was a poetess and wrote
 'The Bells of Aberlady'

And furthermore, his Gaelic
 name was Douglas
 And then, weighty Holist song
 The time the sheep was fed?
 And then Adam's name was Great.
 Was it such a
 She was a poetess and wrote
 'The Bells of Aberlady'

Now "Gaelic" is a Gaelic word
 in Gaelic it is "Macpherson"
 He assisted the Gaelic games
 and for his devotion
 MacCallum Mack, his son-in-law,
 Was used, Duke of Argyll
 His mother's name was Janet Goss
 A sister of King Col.

And then, that's more of
 Gaelic.
 His name was Gifford;
 He killed a bullock with his sword
 When he was just a boy
 The youth him old to Sterling jail
 His little heart his might.
 He walked off with the gates and

all,
 At the dead hour of night
 And furthermore, our Holist chiefs
 Have all got pagan names,
 Such as Ashten—hies my son—
 The more the better name—
 Fingal was Ajax, or the like,
 Gann the youngster a Spartan;
 Macgregor was, who can tell what was something about certain

There's no use talking about
 Gaelic,
 It's just a kind of gibberish,
 A portion of the Gaelic tongue
 Spoken by the Toss of Robert
 The Gaelic, you see, were not a clan.

Although of the same house;
 But just a sort of laughing stock
 That earned bricks and stone,
 For instance, there's the "Hind" too
 It's named 't' together;
 It's named 't' together;
 'Twas first wrote in the Gaelic
 tongue

By Homer in Balgathery;
 The Gaelic they got it the last,
 And spelled it as you see,
 Then wrote that Homer was a
 Greek,
 A most tremendous lie

And no doubt you would like to know
 When the Gaelic was used;
 Oh, how, it was the house place
 before the avia fied
 Well, was just a laughing,
 Some say was a Gaelic
 There's no use laughing 'bout a
 word,
 'Twas the Holist's of the whole.
